MOTOR SERVICE
DISCONTINUED

Civilian Employees at Fort
Bliss Now Use the City Street Cars.

Approximately 1000 persons were added to the daily passengers of the El Paso street cars Monday morning when the motor transport corps at Fort Bliss discontinued the free rides previously given civilian employees of the war department. The number of trucks engaged at this work during the past year averaged 45, and at one time was as high as 100 daily.

Economy was the motive in discontinuing the motor service, which saved each of the approximate 1000 workers 10 cents a day. The free transportation previously given was between the lower part of the city and the various camps at which the workers were engaged. Most of the workers, it was reported Monday morning, were Mexican laborers.

The El Paso street car company knew nothing of the change in the policy of the war department here until notified Saturday afternoon. There was no request made on the military authorities here to turn over that volume of transportation to the street car company, and likewise there was no other friction between the army and the car company, said Albi Warren, manager of the street car company.

Seven extra street cars were operated on the Fort Bliss line Monday morning, and several more will be added tomorrow to cope with the increased traffic. The change in schedule of the Fort Bliss line commencing tomorrow will be double headers at 6:30, 6:40 and 6:50 a. m., four cars at 7 a. m., three at 7:10 a. m. and two at 7:20 a. m. Extra cars will be operated during the evening rush also.

3000 Siwash Indians
Fought in War, Says
Engineer From Alaska

The Siwash Indians of Alaska who fought in the European war, numbered approximately 300, according to Lieut. Charles O. Thielicke, formerly a mining engineer of Juneau, Alaska, who arrived in El Paso Sunday after being discharged at Fort Grant, Ill.

The total number of Alaskans in the war was approximately 3000. The Siwash Indians, some of a higher hue than the southwestern Indians and are mostly of a stocky build, said Lieut. Thielicke. "Those who fought in the war averaged 125 pounds."

Lieut. Thielicke fought in the Argonne forests and the St. Mihiel drive with the 31st engineers. He will stay in El Paso for a day or two to see his friends.

PLAN TO HONOR
WAR VETERANS

Silver City to Celebrate the Fourth in Name of the New Mexico Men.

Grant County, New Mexico, will dedicate the Fourth of July to honoring the 1918 men who went from its borders into the world war. The great event will be staged at Silver City, where there will be roast beef sufficient for 10,000 people, a military parade, airplane stunts, moving picture shows, dancing in several halls and on the well paved streets, baseball game, three military bands and two orchestras, everything free for all, according to chairman Clarence Reynold of the committee on arrangements.

Brig. Gen. James B. Ewell, El Paso district military commander, will be the guest of honor. He and his aide will reach Silver City July 2 and will be tendered a reception. Col. E. P. Rockhill, commanding the Fort Bayard military sanitarium, will be chief marshal of the parade which will occur in the morning of the fourth. In addition to the large number of discharged Grant county soldiers, sailors and marines, a squadron of the 11th cavalry from Columbus and the general service corps at Fort Bayard will participate.

An airplane from Rockwell Field, San Diego, Calif., will be ordered to Silver City for the occasion and the aviator who has seen service beyond the seas will show the people some of the possibilities in aerial navigation. This celebration is under the auspices of the Grant county chamber of commerce and it is proposed to make it the most memorable meeting of the kind ever held in the state. The several military camps at Santa Rita, Harby, Tyrone, Plover, and other points are aiding in the matter, the China Copper company alone having contributed $1000 towards the expenses of the day.

Coming Events
Cast Their Shadows

Prepare Now to Withstand the Crisis.

Do you anticipate with a shuddering dread the beautiful event of childbirth. You can avoid discomfort during the period and strain at the crisis by preparing your system and putting yourself in a special condition to meet the time. For just this purpose women all over the world use every day the famous and famous remedy, Mother's Friend. It is prepared to give the mother-in-law that direct help she needs. The muscles, nerves, tendons and cords are made and kept soft and elastic. Thus strain is avoided, and as a result, hemorrhages, nausea, tearing-down and stretching pains are avoided. The abdominal muscles expand easily and gently when baby is born. Naturally, pain is less and the hours are fewer. The system is prepared and the crisis is one of much less danger. Write the Bradford Regulator Company, Dept. M, Lamar Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for their helpful Mother's Friend, and obtain a bottle of Mother's Friend from the druggist today. It is as standard as anything you can think of. And remember, there is nothing to take the place of MOTHER'S FRIEND.—Adv.

How a Living Trust
Operates

While in the flood tide of success, you may deem it wise to secure yourself absolutely against the trials of adversity. You can create a Living Trust, the income payable to yourself, while you live, and make the principal or income available to others at your death.

If your property, care or heavy or your health impaired, by creating a Living Trust, you will be relieved of responsibility and be assured of your income.

As an owner of a house you can dedicate a trust fund to its maintenance for as long as you wish. In fact, you can settle an income on yourself or any beneficiary, on terms which you may dictate, and the Trust Company, as your representative will carry out the agreement to the letter. A confidential discussion with an officer of this Company may disclose ways in which a Living Trust may be an ideal way for meeting conditions in your affairs.

EL PASO FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM TEXAS

MEET OF 144TH
INFANTRY HOME

The Company Commander
Praises Bravery of El Pasoans in Battle.

Capt. Earl G. Crowder, of Dallas, who commanded company G, 144th infantry, paid a high compliment to the El Pasoans in his command to Maj. P. J. McCannat, Maj. McCannat, who formerly commanded the 11st field hospital, received the compliment at Fort Worth where he went as a representative of this city to welcome the El Pasoans of the 35th division. He gave the highest regard for the remarkable efficiency and extreme bravery of the men in company G, said Capt. Crowder. Company G was made up originally of what was El Paso company K, of the Fourth Texas infantry. Many El Pasoans since have been transferred to other units, or previously discharged, and some were killed. The remaining 22 men from this city who made up the company as it reached Fort Worth, arrived here Sunday. El Pasoans in company A, 141st infantry, will be demobilized at Camp Travis, San Antonio, Tex., and will arrive here in about a week.

Many of the Texas men of the 11st and 144th field hospitals, who were discharged at Fort Worth Thursday, were found in civilian clothes on the evening of their discharge, according to Maj. McCannat. This was but an illustration of how anxious the men were to get back home, Maj. McCannat said.

Capt. C. D. Austin, who took command of the 141st field hospital after Maj. McCannat was relieved of that position, was due to arrive in El Paso Monday afternoon. With him, he expected, his brother, Capt. C. B. Austin, surgeon of the 112nd infantry also will arrive.

First Sgt. Roy W. Culwell, headquarters company, 24th division, son of Judge A. H. Culwell, and Sgt. Bert Willis, 122nd machine gun battalion, will arrive here Tuesday.

Maj. H. M. Helm, who took command of the 111th sanitary train upon its embarkation for the United States, arrived here Sunday.

Those who arrived Saturday afternoon, accompanied by Maj. McCannat, were: From 141st field hospital—Sgt. Tony R. Phillips, Sgt. first class, John L. Andrews, Sgt. William E. Meas, wagoners Harley Kiefer, Ralph Pleck and Joe Hill, bagler Hays Harris, Pvt. first class, Virgil Anderson, Pfc. Clayton Wallace, Clyde Pittman, Guy Michelreese and Pvt. Evan Johnson. From the 144th field hospital: Surs. Ernest Willis and John Fletcher, Pfc. Robert Lee, Corporal, and Schwanhaus. From 112nd machine gun battalion: Lieut. Kerrigan, who formerly was with old company A, 11st infantry; Sgt. Grover Cunningham. Others were: Pvt. first class, L. H. Hangelbier, headquarters company, 24th division; Pvt. first class, R. W. Geddes, 142nd infantry; Sgt. H. E. Wilson, 4th B. Co.; Sgt. C. T. Wriston, 111th field signal battalion; Batt. Sgt. Maj. C. C. Fort 6th infantry; wagoner Edward White, 111th supply train, who formerly was with old company B, 141st infantry; and Capt. Hor. urologist for 24th division.

Many of the El Pasoans of company G, 144th infantry, who arrived Sunday, were dressed in civilian clothes, but for those who had relatives awaiting them at the station, they made a hasty change from the people who had gathered about the train. Their one thought was to get home and to see mother.

Among them were Pvt. A. J. Farler, cook Boyd Tidmore, mechanic Horace C. De Yampart, mechanic J. E. Coleman, Pvt. A. V. Walker and Joe Wadlington.

Aerial Service Looks For Suitable Site For Border Headquarters

Cot. James E. Fechet, chief of air service for the southern department, who arrived in El Paso Sunday to confer with district military officers in regard to the establishment of aerial quarters in this district, left Monday for Columbus, N. M., to inspect that city for a probable site. He will go to Albuquerque and Santa Fe Tuesday.

Military officers here did not consider Fort Bliss a favorable site for the main quarters of the aerial force because of the extensive camps and their need for the surrounding territory to drill. The air currents also render Fort Bliss less favorable than other cities east and west of El Paso, it was reported. It was said, however, that Fort Bliss would receive at least one of the quarters.

Probably 25 hangars will constitute the aerial force in the entire district, it was believed, at an approximate cost of $250,000. About 15 airplanes have arrived at Fort Bliss to date, and several more are due tonight and tomorrow.

Aerial patrol duty will be made a permanent part of the border military service, it was reported, and will tend to render unnecessary the proposed plan to establish a military road and barbed wire fence.

The exact locations of the various aerial sites and the full number of planes will be determined in a few days when Col. Fechet has completed his investigation of the suitable cities and made his report to military headquarters.

DOUGLAS, ARIZ., ASKS FOR MORE TROOPS FOR GARRISON
Douglas, Ariz., June 22.—The departure of troops from Douglas during the last week having stripped the garrison in Camp Harry J. Jones to less than a regiment of cavalry, the Douglas Chamber of Commerce and Douglas has sent telegrams to senators Marcus A. Smith and Henry F. Ashurst, and representative Hayden, requesting that they make urgent representations to the war department for more troops here.
